Thunder of Prohibition Artillery Resounds Again Through Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The thunder of prohibition artillery was heard again in the Capitol today as the old year drew to its death, with both wets and dries preparing for a long siege of warfare in the new year.

A fresh controversy was projected into the turbulent wet and dry situation by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, New York educator, who declared in favor of "selectivity" in law observance. It drew the wrath of the dries, who termed his declaration everything from "silly" to "asinine."

The Butler flareup added spice to the battling which has raged in the capital for a week. It came at a moment when the wet and dry armies were resting over the holidays in preparation for the approaching warfare when congress returns next week.

The demand for a report from the president's law enforcement commission, the utterances of Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, the proposal to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice, and the regular appropriations for prohibition will furnish both House and Senate with an opportunity to debate the dry question. In truth, it will be impossible to keep the subject out of debate, since considerable legislation will come before Congress bearing directly on the subject of prohibition.

BORAH ACTIVE
Senator Borah, meanwhile, was gathering information to prove his charges that the dry law was not being effectively enforced. He was preparing to defend his recent pronouncements against the rest of his dry fraternity in the Senate.

"I am forced into a discussion in the Senate," said Borah. "I'll give the country plenty of facts about prohibition. The information is very easy to get."

The administration also was reported active, with its enforcement officials conferring over steps to improve the enforcement machinery. Both the treasury and justice heads were reported in accord on the proposal to transfer the enforcement agencies to the department of justice. There may also be a shakeup in state administrators, especially where charges have been made of lax enforcement conditions.

The Butler controversy proved merely a diversion in the general warfare. The New York educator declared only "fanatics" wasted enforcement of all laws and that "free men" always will obey the law "by a selective process."

This aroused the dries.

CARAWAY TALKS

"It is Dr. Butler's contention is carried to its logical conclusion," said Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas. "It would permit each citizen to select the laws he'd want to obey and to disregard all others. There could be no security of life, limb or property under such a code. If any organized law. The murderers, bandits and burglars would obey all law but the one they violated and dismiss the thought of punishment by saying they didn't believe in the law they violated."

"It is perfectly amazing for a man to have as much intelligence as Dr. Butler is reputed to have and never give any evidence of it. His theory is asinine. It would and all social order. Its mere statement demonstrates its absurdity. He has the right to change bad laws—by propaganda, education or even revolution if he sees fit. But to take the stand he does would destroy all law and all government."

To this, Senator Harris (D) of Georgia, another dry leader, added: "I can only express great regret that a man of Dr. Butler's standing should issue a statement that will give encouragement to the violators of all laws."

YOUTH ARRESTED AS SUSPECT IN CLEVELAND BANK ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, Dec. 31.—An 18-year-old youth was arrested at his home here early today as a suspect in the bank robbery yesterday which resulted in one of the greatest intensified bandit hunts in police history when 24 policemen, heavily armed, beat through a wooded district on the borderland of East Cleveland after laying down a barrage of gunfire, and snared two of the bandit trio outright.

The youth arrested this morning through descriptions furnished police by the two gunmen captured in yesterday's ambush, gave his name to police as Germaine De Marzy, 18. The small finger of his left hand is missing.

The two gunmen captured yesterday are Frank Amato, 21, and Mario Greco, 21. They have been identified as the confederates and sat in an automobile while the third man held up the bank.

An attempt to identify De Marzy will be made today by Charles Ciasca, 26, bank cashier, at the Euclid-Ivanhoe branch of the Cleveland Trust Co., who was the victim of the daring holdup.

STEAL $825
Ciasca was stuck up in the bank yesterday afternoon by one of a trio of bandits who swept up approximately $825 in cash, and fled to the automobile where his two confederates were awaiting him. Ciasca grabbed a revolver and gave chase, firing two shots after the fleeing robbers.

Warnings were broadcast over the police radio system and police cruisers picked up the trail of the bandits within a short time tracking them down to a wooded strip near East Cleveland where the three bandits abandoned their automobile and struck out into the woods underground.

Probably one of the quickest mobilizations in police history here followed. Heavily armed, 61 policemen and seven firemen, arrived at the scene and laying down a veritable hail of gunfire before them, beat through the woods.

Forty-five minutes after the ambushade started, one of the youths was captured. Five minutes later a second was snared. The third member of the bandit trio, however, succeeded in evading the police dragnet.

Approximately $400 of the bank loot was found in the abandoned automobile yesterday and in the pockets of the two captured youths. It was assumed the third man has the balance.

RUM KILLINGS SHADOWED BY BOOZE THEFT

Authorities Begin Inquiry Into
Robbery of Whiskey By Coast Guards.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 31.—The threefold investigation into the killing of three members of the rum runner Black Duck was overshadowed here today by a separate inquiry into the alleged theft of liquor by coast guards from the smuggling craft Flor-Del-Mar, captured about the same time of the Black Duck shooting.

The theft charges followed a brawl in which both members of the coast guard and sailors from the submarine base here participated. Police reported that the fighters told them the free-for-all was a result of liquor stolen from the 4,000 case cargo of the Flor-Del-Mar, which was captured last night.

Captain L. T. Chalker, chief of staff of the coast guard station here, has ordered a search of all patrol boats and destroyers in an effort to find the liquor reported to have been stolen by the guard. Five guards have been taken into custody and face a court martial.

TWO MEN HURT
Jack Basley, coast guard, and George Rupert, sailor from the submarine base, were seriously injured during the brawl. Harry Stone, sailor from the sub base, was arrested, charged with assault and battery. He is accused of attacking the injured men.

The threefold investigation into the Black Duck slaying was featured by a dispute between federal and Rhode Island officials. When United States Attorney Henry M. Boss, Jr., of Providence declared that while he was conducting an investigation he did not expect to present the case to a grand jury, Benjamin M. McMan, first assistant attorney general of Rhode Island, objected. He said that if the case was presented to a federal grand jury he would make every effort to present it to a state inquisitorial body.

Federal and state attorneys also had words in the Newport hospital where Charles Travers, surviving member of the Black Duck's crew is a wounded prisoner. Neither Travers' attorney nor state officers were allowed to see him. Counsel for Travers, fearing danger of removal from the Rhode Island jurisdiction to the coast guard headquarters here, prevailed upon Boss to seek a warrant for Travers' arrest.

An inquest was ordered for Thursday by Medical Examiner Adelson, to be held in Newport.

BOY TELLS OF GUN BATTLE

Says Mother Fainted When Highway Policemen Was Killed Last Week.

BELLAIRE, O., Dec. 31 — A four-year-old boy, Donald Schroeder, today told police what little he knew about the fatal shooting of Corporal Brady Paul, Pennsylvania state highway police officer and about the wounding of another patrolman, near New Castle, Pa., last week.

The child, scarcely knowing why he was being questioned, said that he remembered the two policemen fell when the shots were exchanged between the alleged bandit car and the police officers.

His mother, Mrs. Irene Schroeder, according to the boy, fainted during the fusillade of shots.
Meanwhile, police are still continuing their search for Mrs.
Schroeder. She is wanted for questioning in connection with the famous escapade.

YOUTH ARRESTED AS SUSPECT IN CLEVELAND BANK ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, Dec. 31.—An 18-year-old youth was arrested at his home here early today as a suspect in the bank robbery yesterday which resulted in one of the greatest intensified bandit hunts in police history when 61 policemen, heavily armed, beat through a wooded district on the borderland of East Cleveland after laying down a barrage of gunfire, and snared two of the bandit trio outright.

The youth arrested this morning through descriptions furnished police by the two gunmen captured in yesterday's ambushade, gave his name to police as Germaine De Marzy, 18. The small finger of his left hand is missing.

The two gunmen captured yesterday were Frank Amato, 21, and Mario Greco, 21. They have been identified as the confederates and sat in an automobile while the third man held up the bank.

An attempt to identify De Mar-zy will be made today by Charles Clasas, 26, bank cashier, at the Euclid-Ivanhoe branch of the Cleveland Trust Co., who was the victim of the daring holdup.

Clasas was stuck up in the bank yesterday afternoon by one of a trio of bandits who swept up approximately $825 in cash and fled to the automobile where his two confederates were awaiting him. Clasas grabbed a revolver and gave chase, firing two shots
after the fleeing robbers.

Warnings were broadcast over the police radio system and police cruisers picked up the trail of the bandits within a short time tracking them down to a wooded strip near East - Cleveland where the three bandits abandoned their automobile and struck out into the woods underground.

Probably one of the quickest mobilizations in police history here followed. Heavily armed, 61 policemen and seven firemen, arrived at the scene and, laying down a veritable hail of gunfire before them, beat through the woods.

Forty-five minutes after the ambushade started, one of the youths was captured. Five minutes later a second was snared.
The third member of the bandit trio, however, succeeded in evading the police dragnet.

Approximately $400 of the bank loot was found in the abandoned automobile yesterday and in the pockets of the two captured youths. It was assumed the third man has the balance.

RUM KILLINGS SHADOWED BY BOOZE THEFT

Authorities Begin Inquiry Into
Robbery of Whiskey By Coast Guards.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 31.
—The threefold investigation into the killing of three members of the rum runner Black Duck was overshadowed here today by a separate inquiry into the alleged theft of liquor by coast guards from the smuggling craft Flor-del-Mar, captured about the same time of the Black Duck shooting.

The theft charges followed a brawl in which both members of the coast guard and sailors from the submarine base here participated. Police reported that the fighters told them the free-for-all was a result of liquor stolen from the 4,000 case cargo of the Flor-del-Mar which was unloaded last night.

Captain L. T. Chalker, chief of staff of the coast guard in this area, has ordered a thorough search of all patrol boats and destroyers in an effort to find the liquor reported to have been stolen by the guard. Five guards have been taken into custody and face a court martial.

TWO MEN HURT

Jack Easley, coast guard, and George Rupert, sailor from the submarine base, were seriously injured during the brawl. Harry Stone, sailor from the sub base, was arrested, charged with assault and battery. He is accused of attacking the injured men.

The three ply investigation into the Black Duck slaying was featured by a dispute between federal and Rhode Island officials.
When United States Attorney
Henry M. Boss, Jr., of Providence declared that while he was conducting an investigation he did not expect to present the case to a grand jury, Benjamin McClyman, first assistant attorney general of Rhode Island, objected.

He said that if the case was not presented to a federal grand jury he would make every effort to present it to a state inquisitorial body.

Federal and state attorneys also had words in the Newport hospital where Charles Travers, surviving member of the Black Duck's crew is a wounded prisoner. Neither Travers's attorney nor state officers were allowed to see him. Counsel for Travers, fearing danger of removal from the Rhode Island jurisdiction to the coast guard headquarters here, prevailed upon Boss to seek a warrant for Travers's arrest.

An inquest was ordered for Thursday by Medical Examiner
Adelson, to be held in Newport.

SOUR MILK COSTS FARMERS DOLLARS

And Is Usually Result of Carelessness, Says Dairy Professor.

Sour milk costs Ohio producers thousands of dollars a year, and usually is caused by using unclean utensils or failing to cool the milk properly, says Prof. L. H. Burgwald of the department of dairy technology of the Ohio State University. "A little care on the part of the farmer would avoid this loss," says Professor Burgwald.

"Milk is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. All that the bacteria require when introduced into the milk, is the proper temperature, and they will multiply very rapidly. In growing they break down the milk sugar in the milk and convert it into lactic acid which in turn sours the milk. But the bacteria will grow very slowly, if at all, at a temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Milk coming from the normal healthy cow is practically free from bacteria, so when large numbers of bacteria are found it means either that they have been introduced after milking, through the use of unclean utensils, or that the milk has not been promptly and properly cooled, and the bacteria have multiplied very rapidly.

"The public judges the quality of the milk by the length of time which it will keep sweet. The milk plant has to use some test which will determine in advance how long the milk will keep sweet. This test takes the form of bacteria count under a compound microscope, an alcohol test, or a methylene blue test. The blue color of the milk caused by the addition of methylene blue dye, disappears more or less quickly, according to the number of bacteria present. The microscopic test, however, an actual count of the bacteria present, is the one most commonly used."

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing so apt to offend delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

LETTER WRITTEN BY OHIO PEN INMATE

The following letter was received from Jack H. Smith, an inmate of the Ohio State Penitentiary.

"As I write these lines, I'm sitting in a five by seven cell in the Ohio Penitentiary. On the tier below me, running a race with Father Time and the Old Man with the Scythe, with the outcome in many cases looking very favorable for the long wicker basket, are 64 men men (56 tubercular prisoners and eight awaiting execution) who spend 24 hours each day in their little pig-iron apartments—men whom I help assassinate the time by letting them listen to a radio program. To accomplish this, I have run wires from my "boudoir" along their tier and have furnished them with headphones. But tonight, they are disconsolate. The set I have has thrown a shot and gone haywire; and they have their hearts set on listening to a program being broadcast by some of their fellow guests from our Chapel Studio. Not only that, but the World's Series is about to be played.

"There are a great many radios around this old quadrangle of granite, but with one exception everyone of these seem to have their limitations. The enormous amount of steel, etc., squandered on our present place of abode and the close proximity of aerials seem to form an obstacle very few sets can completely overcome. And when all of them commence reaching higher and yon for a program the result is not only awfully hard on the eardrums but does terrible things to one's religion. That is, all of them do but the exception mentioned—TEMPLE. There is only one of your bang-up receivers inside the walls, an 8-61. A lucky chap in the dormitory—a banker, who took too many samples home—has one. And he not only gets reception from all over terra firma but never seems to be bothered with the interference that is the bane of our radio existence. I have listened to his set several times and I've concluded that there is only one solution—get a TEMPLE.

"However, there is a huge fly in my ointment. Furnishing these tubercular chaps with headphones and keeping a flock of bothersome batteries imbued with life has put such a dent in my budget that purchasing one of your new machines is out of the question there isn't that much corn in Egypt. And for some reason there is an institutional keynote in effect that frowns ferociously upon time payments. With us, it's all down or nothing. Hence this appeal to you. The thought just struck me that perhaps you might have the chassis of an A. C. set lying around your plant, that has some defect or has been damaged to such an extent that precludes selling it to one of your distributors—one that might be within the reach of semi-insolvent folks. If you have such a set and will let me have it, you'll crowd right into the softest spot in the hearts of some sixty odd "cons." And, of course, I'll pay the transportation charges.

"If you can and will help make life a little more pleasant for these men, who are just some pretty good chaps whom life has battered and whipped because their machines for thought and action were badly assembled at the factory or have been damaged in the collision with modern times—men who haven't a great many more days in this old vale of tears and laughter—I'm sure they will join with me in calling you blessed. There's nothing like a

HAPPY NEW YEAR

AMONG all the phrases expressing good-will and the true spirit of the Holidays—none excels the old-fashioned "Happy New Year." Transmitted with sincerity, it warms the heart and makes brighter the past, the present and the future. So, the Norfolk and Western Railway extends this old-fashioned greeting to its friends and patrons.

While the past year has been one of progress and prosperity for the railway and the territory it serves, yet it finds its greatest satisfaction in the many friendly contacts it has made with individuals, organizations and industries. It is hoped that these friendships will continue; the year to come will then be a truly happy one.

Added beauty of lines constitutes the outstanding feature of these new bodies. Mechanically, the Ford retains the same chassis and engine that have established the performance records of the Model A with such changes as have been built in since introduction.

The new lines of the Ford are most readily apparent in a deeper and narrower radiator, a higher and longer hood and streamline mouldings that sweep gracefully rearward without a break.

The instant impression of a car that sits and rides lower results from a lowered top, smaller wheels, larger tires and new fenders, while increased riding space has been provided through greater interior dimensions. Fenders of new design add a great deal to the flowing sweep of the car, while the running board and side dust shield or valance fit snugly to the body. Also the fenders flare up from the chassis frame in a pleasing line to a higher elevation than formerly. Rear fenders also sweep down gracefully over the wheels to a point two inches lower than previously.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

LETTER WRITTEN BY OHIO PEN INMATE

The following letter was received from Jack H. Smith, an inmate of the Ohio State Penitentiary.

"As I write these lines, I'm sitting in a five by seven cell in the Ohio Penitentiary. On the tier below me, running a race with Father Time and the Old Man with the Scythe, with the outcome in many cases looking very favorable for the long wicker basket, are 64 men men (56 tubercular prisoners and eight awaiting execution) who spend 24 hours each day in their little pig-iron apartments—men whom I help assassinate the time by letting them listen to a radio program. To accomplish this, I have run wires from my "boudoir" along their tier and have furnished them with headphones. But tonight they are disconsolate. The set I have has thrown a shot and gone haywire; and they have their hearts set on listening to a program being broadcast by some of their fellow guests from our Chapel Studio. Not only that, but the World's Series is about to be played.

"There are a great many radios around this old quadrangle of granite, but with one exception everyone of these seem to have their limitations. The enormous amount of steel, etc., squandered on our present place of abode and the close proximity of aerials seem to form an obstacle very few sets can completely overcome. And when all of them commence reaching hither and yon for a program the result is not only awfully hard on the eardrums but does terrible things to one's religion. That is, all of them do but the exception mentioned—TEMPLE. There is only one of your bang-up receivers inside the walls, an 8-61. A lucky chap in the dormitory—a banker, who took too many samples home—has one. And he not only gets reception from all over terra firma but never seems to be bothered with the interference that is the bane of our radio existence. I have listened to his set several times and I've concluded that there is only one solution—get a TEMPLE.

"However, there is a huge fly in my ointment. Furnishing these tubercular chaps with headphones and keeping a flock of bothersome batteries imbued with life has put such a dent in my budget that purchasing one of your new machines is out of the question there isn't that much corn in Egypt. And for some reason there is an institutional keynote in effect that frowns ferociously upon time payments. With us, it's all down or nothing. Hence this appeal to you. The thought just struck me that perhaps you might have the chassis of an A. C. set lying around your plant, that has some defect or has been damaged to such an extent that precludes selling it to one of your distributors—one that might be within the reach of semi-insolvent folks. If you have such a set and will let me have it, you'll crowd right into the softest spot in the hearts of some sixty odd "cons." And, of course, I'll pay the transportation charges.

"If you can and will help make life a little more pleasant for these men, who are just some pretty good chaps whom life has battered and whipped because their machines for thought and action were badly assembled at the factory or have been damaged in the collision with modern times—men who haven't a great many more days in this old vale of tears and laughter—I'm sure they will join with me in calling you blessed. There's nothing like a

AMONG all the phrases expressing good-will and the true spirit of the Holidays—none excels the old-fashioned "Happy New Year." Transmitted with sincerity, it warms the heart and makes brighter the past, the present and the future. So, the Norfolk and Western Railway extends this old-fashioned greeting to its friends and patrons.

While the past year has been one of progress and prosperity for the railway and the territory it serves, yet it finds its greatest satisfaction in the many friendly contacts it has made with individuals, organizations and industries. It is hoped that these friendships will continue; the year to come will then be a truly happy one.

THE NIGHT RIDER

"STORM-TOSSED"

BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

ENID MONROE, young and pretty, has been loved since school days by Ned Grier and Dick Grant, boyhood chums. She favors Dick. After college, the two boys get jobs with an oil company. Ned is sent to Oklahoma while Dick goes to Shanghai. En route Dick stops in Paris to see Enid and her mother, who are vacationing there, only to learn they have left Paris.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER VIII.
DICK turned to her. "Why are you in this business, Marcel? You're too nice a girl to be doing this."

"Oh, Mister Dick, before the war I was very correct, but my fiancé was 'murtue'—how do you say—killed in the war, and I have not been so correct since."

They didn't speak. She pressed his hand.

Again they danced. Just as the music stopped, Marcel drew very close to Dick and whispered:

"Mister Dick would like to come to my room, yes?"

He nodded.

The check paid, Marcel ran to the vestiaire for her coat, her eyes very bright and looking proud as she passed the table of idle girls.

"Taxi?" asked Dick.

"No," Marcel said. "It is not far. Nous marchons."

They walked down Rue Pigalle with its dark doorways and occasional glare of boite and turned up a narrow street.

As Marcel was taking the key out of her bag, Dick looked down at her.

He suddenly felt sick. Great God, it wasn't Marcel he wanted! It was Enid. God, no!

Roaching in his pocket, he counted off five hundred franc notes. Then he took Marcel's hand and placed the notes in it.

"I won't come in, Marcel. Thank you. You've given me a nice evening."

Marcel counted the money. She took his big hand in both of hers and kissed it. "Mer-ci—mer-ci—oh, Mr. Dick. This will take my little boy to Switzerland. He has trouble in his pointing—what you call it—chest."

"Tuberculosis?" asked Dick.

"Yes. He was born after my fiancé was killed. You know now why I won't come in."

Dick patted her on the shoulder and said:

"Good night, Marcel—good luck."

Grabbing a deep breath, he pulled his hat down over his eyes and walked up the street.

The next morning, Dick woke up with an awful headache. He had been moved up all these drinks.

He lay in bed in the south of France. If he only had time, he could cable to Dave and find out where they were.

But it was now, there was no time for him to do any thing but get a miracle.

DR. COPELAND SAYS— Anaemia Too Common In Young Folk of Today

Especially in Girls of Adolescent Age, Says Authority, Suggesting Treatment.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

ANEMIA is an all too prevalent disease. There are myriads of cases of the "secondary anaemia," so-called, especially among young girls of the adolescent age. And an extreme type of anaemia, which is very serious, is called "pernicious anaemia."

Any condition which may be termed anaemia is a serious enough. In most cases the red corpuscles of the blood are lacking in numbers. Because they do not perform their function, the girl is down in health. She may complain of headaches, low spirits are noticed, there is lack of mental vigor, she suffers from acidity of the stomach and constipation.

In times past, acute anaemia was a very common disease among girls of school age. Boys were practically free from it. Why was this? It used to be that school girls were considered "unladylike" if they engaged in any form of exercise other than taking a formal walk with a chaperone.

That was a mid-Victorian ideal. Things are quite different now. Girls take part in almost all the sports that boys do. With this free, out-of-door exercise and play most girls enjoy robust health today.

Among the causes of simple anaemia are loss of blood, and in tropical auto-intoxication, with or without constipation. The condition we call "acidosis" is likely to be present.

Diseased teeth and tonsils may have much to do with bringing on this condition known as anaemia. Many serious ailments are traced to infection of the teeth and other local infections.

The mode of living must be changed radically. The anaemic person should have plenty of fresh air and sunshine. There must be improved diet, wholesome food and the best of care under the doctor's direction.

You must first remove the cause then the red corpuscles take care of themselves. You will help to build up the blood by a well-balanced diet. The presence of anaemia means undernourishment of the body. From the lack of the right food, of fresh air and sunshine the poor body is denied the nourishing elements.

Anaemia is a natural result. The digestion of the anaemic person is often impaired and so easily digested foods must be eaten. Milk and eggs, cereals with cream, fruits together with orange juice, tomatoes, spinach, lettuce and similar foods to provide the necessary vitamins, iron and other mineral salts must be included in the diet. An abundance of proteins such as muscle meats, liver and kidney are useful in building up the bodily tissues, including the blood.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

More than any one else who ever appeared in a talking picture, the talents of Ted Lewis, the famous "high-hatter tragedian of jazz," are diversified and unusual. For Ted is an accomplished performer on practically every musical instrument made!

Though his only instruction was on the piccolo—and that at the age of nine years—he has applied himself with the fervor of a born musician to the mastering of all other instruments, so that now he is recognized as a veritable musical phenomenon.

And in addition to his genius as an instrumentalist, his greatest claim to fame rests on his ability as a singer—not, it is true, as the possessor of an exceptional voice, but as one who has developed a manner of song delivery that is distinctive and all his own.

His picture, "Is Everybody Happy?" appears at the Grand theatre for the last time Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Greta Garbo, whose every picture has been an outstanding success since Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer brought her to this country from Sweden a few years ago, will not disappoint her admirers in "The Kiss," a Continental drama which opened Wednesday at the Cliftona theatre.

As a French woman, misunderstood by a brutal husband, Miss Garbo gives a characterization which definitely stamps her as a tragedienne of first rank. As usual, Miss Garbo is artist enough not to overplay her role and when in a powerful climax she shoots her jealous husband it is done with a realism that reaches way back into the pit of the theatre without any of the melodrama so after accompanying such a dramatic sequence.

Supporting Miss Garbo in the French drama are Conrad Nagel, as an attorney, Andres Randolph, as the jealous husband, Lew Ayres, a newcomer to the screen, as the lover, and Holmes Herbert as Ayres' father. The members of the supporting cast give finished performances.

Egg-Laying Species

Reptiles, including the alligator and tortoise, lay eggs containing a large amount of food-yolk with a smaller proportion of white, and usually the shell is like parchment in texture. Insects of all kinds, crustaceans and molluscs, amphibia and two species of mammal are egg layers. The egg-laying mammals are the duck-billed platypus and the banding or spiny anteater, both Australian animals.

THE NIGHT RIDER

"STORM-TOSSED"

BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

ENID MONROE, young and pretty, has been loved since school days by Ned Grier and Dick Grant, boyhood chums. She favors Dick. After college, the two boys get jobs with an oil company. Ned is sent to Oklahoma while Dick goes to Shanghai. Enid goes to Paris to see Enid and her mother, who are vacationing there, only to learn they have left Paris.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER VIII.
DICK turned to her. "Why are you in this business, Marcel? You're too nice a girl to be doing this."

"Oh, Mister Deek, before the war I was very correct, but my fiancé was mortally wounded in the war, and I have been killed in the war, and I have never heard of him."

They didn't speak. She pressed his hand. "Again they danced. Just as the music stopped, Marcel drew very close to Dick and whispered: "Mister Deek would like to come to my room, yes?"

He nodded. The check paid, Marcel ran to the vestiaire for her coat, her eyes very bright and looking proud as she passed the table of idle girls. She had caught the big American.

"Taxi?" asked Dick. "No," Marcel said. "It is not far. Nous marchons."

They walked down Rue Pigalle with its dark doorways and occasional glare of light and turned up a narrow street. As Marcel was taking the key out of her bag, Dick looked down at her.

He suddenly felt sick. Great God, it wasn't Marcel he wanted! It was Enid. God, no! Reaching into his pocket, he counted off five hundred franc notes. Then he took Marcel's hand and placed the notes in it.

"I won't come in, Marcel. Thank you. You've given me a nice evening."

Marcel counted the money. She took his big hand in both of hers and kissed it. "Merci—merci—oh, Mr. Deek. This will take my little boy to Switzerland. He has trouble in his portfolio—what you call it—chest."

"Tuberculosis?" asked Dick. "Yes. He was born after my fiancé was killed. You know now why—" She wept.

Dick patted her on the shoulder and said: "Good night, Marcel—good luck."

Breathing a deep breath, he pulled his hat down over his eyes and walked up the street. The next morning Dick woke up with an awful headache. Why had he mixed up all those drinks?

Enid—Enid in the south of France. If he only had time he could cable to Dave and find out where they were.

But as it was now, there would not be time for him to do anything but spend a miserable, wretched Christmas Eve alone in Paris. Bill Everett was going today to a chateau in the country for the holiday.

Today was Christmas Eve. He got out of the big bed and pulled the curtains back. "What should he do? He looked at his watch; it was almost noon. No use in eating breakfast now; the coffee was awful, anyhow. He'd go to that restaurant across the river that Bill had told him about and have lunch. It was quiet, Bill said, and had excellent cooking. He read the Herald. He scanned the Paris and the column "Americans in Paris," hoping to find some one he knew.

Not a familiar name did he see. Throwing down the paper, he went downstairs. For a moment he stood in front of the Crillon and then walked up the rue de Rivoli, looking into the windows of the little shops along the arcade.

Presently he hailed a taxi and objective, and had sent them a cable, but upon calling at the school was told they were away. "We never got your cable," declared Enid indignantly.

"And we were going to the south," said her mother, "but I haven't been feeling very well, and since the weather has been pleasant we thought we would just spend Christmas here."

"Fortunate for me," Dick exclaimed. "I do hope you have no engagement for tonight and for tomorrow," said Mrs. Monroe. "Enid and I were not admitting it, but I think we were both a little homesick."

"I won't come in, Marcel. Thank you."

told the Russian who was driving it: "Foyot."

Well, at least he'd get lunch over. He might go to the Louvre in the afternoon. No. He'd go to Napoleon's tomb.

He stepped into the restaurant. A boy took his hat, and the maître d'hôtel smiled pleasantly at the entrance of the dining room.

"Here, Monsieur," he said, leading Dick to a table, which he pulled out so that Dick could sit on the red velvet-covered seat against the wall. He was just about to sit down when he heard:

"Dick!" He turned like a shot; the blood rushed into his head; he could hardly speak.

Miracle of miracles! There were Enid and her mother at the next table!

"Where did you drop from?" exclaimed Enid, her eyes shining. "You—of all people in the world. Isn't this perfectly lovely?"

"Yes—and on Christmas Eve," said Mrs. Monroe. "Do tell us about yourself, Dick, and how this has happened. It is so nice to see you."

"I'm not now, Mother," cried Enid. Her eyes fairly danced; the color had flared into her cheeks. Dick looked at her and thought he would have to tell her right there before her mother that he loved her.

"How long are you going to be in Paris?" asked Enid. "I must take the night train tomorrow night for Marseilles, where I sail for China."

"Oh," sighed Enid. "Well," said Mrs. Monroe, "at least we can spend the most important days of the holiday together. Enid and I were planning to go out to Malmesbury this afternoon. Won't you come with us?"

Would he? A few moments ago he was going to Napoleon's tomb. Now he was going to Malmesbury, where the great general had lived with his adored Josephine.

After lunch they started for Malmesbury. Enid pinched herself. Was it really so? Could it be? She was simply bubbling over. There was so much to talk about.

DR. COPELAND SAYS

Anaemia Too Common In Young Folk of Today

Especially in Girls of Adolescent Age, Says Authority, Suggesting Treatment.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ANAEMIA is an all too prevalent disease. There are myriads of cases of the "secondary anaemia," so-called, especially among young girls of the adolescent age.

And an extreme type of anaemia, which is very serious, is called "pernicious anaemia."

Any condition which may be termed anaemia is a serious one. In most cases the red corpuscles of the blood are lacking in numbers. Because they do not perform their function, the girl is down in health. She may complain of headaches, low spirits are noticed, there is lack of mental vigor, she suffers from acidity of the stomach and constipation.

In times past, acute anaemia was a very common disease among girls of school age. Boys were practically free from it. Why was this? It used to be that school girls were considered "unladylike" if they engaged in any form of exercise other than taking a formal walk with a chaperone.

That was a mid-Victorian ideal. Things are quite different now. Girls take part in almost all the sports that boys do. With this free, out-of-doors exercise and play most girls enjoy robust health today.

Among the causes of simple anaemia are loss of blood, and in testinal auto-intoxication, with or without constipation. The condition we call "acidosis" is likely to be present.

Diseased teeth and tonsils may have much to do with bringing on this condition known as anaemia. Many serious ailments are traced to infection of the teeth and other local infections.

The mode of living must be changed radically. The anaemic person should have plenty of fresh air and sunshine. There must be improved diet, wholesome food and the best of care under the doctor's direction.

But a good diet alone will not bring back normal health. Proper rest and exercise in the open air as the patient grows stronger, will assist in the desired result.

You must first remove the cause then the red corpuscles take care of themselves. You will help to build up the blood by a well-balanced diet. The presence of anaemia means in denourishment of the body. From the lack of the right food of fresh air and sunshine the poor body is denied the nourishing elements Anaemia is a natural result.

The digestion of the anaemic person is often impaired and so easily-digested foods must be eaten. Milk and eggs—cooked with cream, fruits together with orange juice, tomatoes, spinach, lettuce and similar foods to provide the necessary vitamins, iron and other mineral salts must be included in the diet. An abundance of proteins such as muscle meats, liver and kidney are useful in building up the bodily tissues, including the blood.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

More than any one else who ever appeared in a talking picture, the talents of Ted Lewis, the famous "high-hatter tragedian of jazz," are diversified and unusual. For Ted is an accomplished performer on practically every musical instrument made!

Though his only instruction was on the piccolo—and that at the age of nine years—he has applied himself with the fervor of a born musician to the mastering of all other instruments, so that now he is recognized as a veritable musical phenomenon.

And in addition to his genius as an instrumentalist, his greatest claim to fame rests on his ability as a singer—not, it is true, as the possessor of an exceptional voice, but as one who has developed a manner of song delivery that is distinctive and all his own.

His picture, "Is Everybody Happy?" appears at the Grand theatre for the last time Tuesday and Wednesday.

Greta Garbo, whose every picture has been an outstanding success since Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer brought her to this country from Sweden a few years ago, will not disappoint her admirers in "The Kiss," a Continental drama which opened Wednesday at the Cliftona theatre.

As a French woman, misunderstood by a brutal husband, Miss Garbo gives a characterization which definitely stamps her as a tragedienne of first rank. As usual, Miss Garbo is artist enough not to overplay her role and when in a powerful climax she shoots her jealous husband it is done with a realism that reaches way back into the pit of the theatre without any of the melodrama so after accompanying such a dramatic sequence.

Supporting Miss Garbo in the French drama are Conrad Nagel, as an attorney, Andres Randolph, as the jealous husband, Lew Ayres, a newcomer to the screen, as the lover, and Holmes Herbert as Ayres' father. The members of the supporting cast give finished performances.

Egg-Laying Species

Reptiles, including the alligator and tortoise, lay eggs containing a large amount of food-yolk with a smaller proportion of white, and usually the shell is like parchment in texture. Insects of all kinds, crustaceans and molluscs, amphibia and two species of mammal are egg layers. The egg laying mammals are the duck billed platypus and the echidna or spiny anteater, both Australian animals.

Millennium Possibility

Human beings are the most interesting objects on earth, and to know themselves and get along with one another is their most important business. That business drags because they do not know what they could do if they stopped quarreling among themselves and used their brains to solve their common problems.—Prof. George A. Dewey.

World's Hottest Places

The hottest place in the world is the town of Azizia, in Tripoli. This is located about 25 miles south of the Mediterranean. The temperature in the summer of 1924 was reported at 136.4 degrees Fahrenheit, and the temperature at Greenland ranch, Death valley, Calif., was recorded as 134.1 degrees Fahrenheit on July 10, 1913.

LUTHERANS AND DARBYVILLE WIN SENSATIONAL CONTESTS

Two feature basketball games were played in the Darbyville gymnasium Monday evening with two points deciding the victor in one game and one point decided the contest in the other.

The first game was played between the Circleville Lutheran Brotherhood and the Darbyville Bulldogs. The Lutherans won their game by the narrow margin of 28-26. The game was exceedingly rough with the small playing space taken into consideration.

The Lutherans started on the long end of the count and although their margin was never more than a few points managed to keep in the lead through the greater part of the contest.

Rhodes with four buckets and two charity tosses, Young with one goal and five free throws and George Troutman with two from action and three free tosses led the scorers. A Beatty did the greater part of the Darbyville scoring with eight from the field and two free throws for 18 points. The Lutherans made good on 10 free throws and the Darbyville lads hit for only four.

GAME SENSATIONAL

The big game of the evening between the Darbyville All-Stars and the Modern Woodmen from Commercial Point was a battle from the opening whistle until the final blast had been heard. The Darbyville boys won their game 35-34 in one of the fastest finishes an amateur court game ever had.

Darbyville started ahead and held a lead of 17 to 5 at the end of the first half. At the outset of the third period the Commercial Pointers got hot and continued that way until the game had nearly its end, coming mighty near carrying away the All-Stars' lead.

A Beatty playing in his second game of the evening again was high man for his team with six goals and two fouls for 14 points. Walker scored three fielders and a foul and Pitt four and two for 10 points.

Dountz for Commercial Point, led the scorers of both teams with five from the field and a like number from the free throw line for 15 points.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

CAPACITY CROWD EXPECTED AT C. A. C. FEDERAL GLASS CONTEST NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

The crowd which sees the C. A. C. tangle with the Federal Glass basketballers at C. A. C. gym Wednesday evening is expected to be as large as that which witnessed the Christmas sham-battle.

While Bliss College was a drawing card it is expected that Johnny Kossman with his Federal Glass tossers will be just as big an attraction as were the collegians.

Not only will the big game draw fans to the turn-stiles but the two preliminaries which have been lined up will also count for many fans.

FIRST GAME AT 7.
The first preliminary which gets under way at promptly 7 p. m. will see the Lutheran Brotherhood tossers vying for honors with the Canal Winchester Brotherhood. The local Lutherans have played but one contest on the local court this year and in that defeated Sam Grant's Flying Cloud courtmen in a great contest. If Marvin Rhodes can hit the old bucket like he did against the Clouds, it is almost a certainty that the Lutherans from Circleville will cop the gonfalon.

The strength of the Canal Winchester Lutheran team is unknown but fans can rest assured that a contest is going to be had in this fray.

The second preliminary to be played immediately following the Lutheran game will see the fast

The Federal Glass basketball team, C. A. C. opponent New Year's night, came through with a splendid victory in the Capital City league Monday evening by trouncing George Van Heyde and his Morrey Jewellers by a 29-15 score.

The Federal team scoring was led by Johnny Kossman, captain, who had 10 points on four field and two foul goals, and Kraft, another guard, with nine points. McNash, Sells, Callahan, Phillips and Morgan completed the Glass lineup.

George Van Heyde, former Ohio State stellar center, was held to one goal and two fouls.

Women's Devotion to Duty
It is related that in San Francisco harbor, when a fog bell became disabled, the woman keeper struck the bell by hand for twenty hours and thirty-five minutes, until the fog lifted. Two days later she stood all night striking the bell with a hammer during a dense fog.

"Movies" Coldly Received
The audience at the first "moving picture" show was apparently under the impression that they were viewing a trick of some kind of shadowgraphy, which was then very popular. The first movie audience was even more critical than a modern first-night crowd, and did not even deign to applaud.

LUTHERANS AND DARBYVILLE WIN SENSATIONAL CONTESTS

Two feature basketball games were played in the Darbyville gymnasium Monday evening with two points deciding the victor in one game and one point decided the contest in the other.

The first game was played between the Circleville Lutheran Brotherhood and the Darbyville Bulldogs. The Lutherans won their game by the narrow margin of 28-26. The game was exceedingly rough with the small playing space taken into consideration.

The Lutherans started on the long end of the count and although their margin was never more than a few points managed to keep in the lead through the greater part of the contest.

Rhodes with four buckets and two charity tosses, Young with one goal and five free throws and George Troutman with two from action and three free tosses led the scorers. A. Beatty did the greater part of the Darbyville scoring with eight from the field and two free throws for 18 points. The Lutherans made good on 10 free throws and the Darbyville lads hit for only four.

GAME SENSATIONAL
The big game of the evening between the Darbyville All-Stars and the Modern Woodmen from Commercial Point was a battle from the opening whistle until the final blast had been heard. The Darbyville boys won their game 35-34 in one of the fastest finishes an amateur court game ever had.

Darbyville started ahead and held a lead of 17 to 5 at the end of the first half. At the outset of the third period the Commercial Pointers got hot and continued that way until the game had neared its end, coming mighty near carrying away the All-Stars' lead. A. Beatty playing in his second game of the evening again was high man for his team with six goals and two fouls for 14 points. Walker scored three fielders and a foul and Pitt four and two for 10 points.

Dountz for Commercial Point, led the scorers of both teams with five from the field and a like number from the free throw line for 15 points.

CLOVER SEED MAY BE SOWN IN WHEAT

Sweet clover seed in the hull sown in winter wheat at wheat seeding time and in December in experiments at Wooster and in January and in February at Columbus, has given satisfactory stands, according to C. J. Willard and L. E. Thatcher, associate agronomists of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

In the light of these results, they suggest that farmers who have found it difficult to obtain stands of sweet clover in wheat try sowing unhulled or unscarified seed early enough to insure a considerable amount of freezing and thawing. Although the agronomists are not certain that early sowing of seed in the hull or even of unscarified seed will be superior to sowing scarified seed somewhat later in wheat, the experiments decidedly favor the early seeding.

Sowing scarified sweet clover seed in honeycombed ground, as red clover is sown, has not always been successful. Scarified sweet clover seed germinates more quickly than red clover seed, two or three days of warm weather often causing many seeds to sprout. Then a drop in temperature below freezing kills many of the sprouted seeds.

Frequently, when seeding is delayed until a drill can be used the seed is not covered, the surface soil may become too dry for the seed to sprout, or if it does sprout, the wheat may have made such growth as to offer serious competition.

Most sweet clover seed as harvested is covered with a water proof layer which prevents germination until it is broken. Freezing and thawing, it was explained, will break the hull, but when the unhulled seed is sown after freezing weather only a small percentage will grow.

Plowing seven or eight inches deep in infested cornstalk land, is necessary if the stalks are to be covered well enough to ruin the hopes of the borers next spring.

C. A. C. BOOKS PONTIAC TEAM

National League Club Led By Miner Here Jan. 9—Club Travels To London.

The Circleville Athletic club basket tossers will play their first out-of-town game of the season Sunday when they travel to London to meet a team they trounced here several weeks ago.

The Club management also announces scheduling the crack Pontiac, Mich., team for a game here on Jan. 9, one week from Thursday, on the Club court. This game will bring some nationally known court aces here led by Johnny Miner, stellar former O. S. U. man. Campbell, formerly with an American League club and remembered here as a star with the Olsen Swedes, along with Deacon Lynch, are members of the Pontiac team.

Ohio, in the opinion of W. W. Paddock, professor of horticulture at the Ohio State University, has a valuable asset in the hundreds of bushels of walnuts which are allowed to go to waste in the state, nearly every fall.

Electricity Conductors
The bureau of standards says that the six best conductors of electricity are the common metals, pure silver, pure copper, pure gold, pure zinc, Swedish iron and tin.

CAPACITY CROWD EXPECTED AT C. A. C. FEDERAL GLASS CONTEST NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

The crowd which sees the C. A. Darbyville Independents tackling the Flying Clouds. Darbyville was defeated by only one point at the hands of the Gordon Tires a week ago and with Walker and Beatty able to hit the net from almost any angle on the court a fast encounter is certain.

The Clouds will present their full lineup with the starters uncertain at this time.

Not only will the big game draw fans to the turn-stiles but the two preliminaries which have been lined up will also count for many fans.

FIRST GAME AT 7.

The first preliminary which gets under way at promptly 7 p. m. will see the Lutheran Brotherhood tossers vying for honors with the Canal Winchester Brotherhood. The local Lutherans have played but one contest on the local court this year and in that defeated Sam Grant's Flying Cloud courtmen in a great contest. If Marvin Rhodes can hit the old bucket like he did against the Clouds, it is almost a certainty that the Lutherans from Circleville will cop the gonfalon.

The strength of the Canal Winchester Lutheran team is unknown but fans can rest assured that a contest is going to be had in this fray.

The second preliminary to be played immediately following the Lutheran game will see the fast

FEDERALS WIN LEAGUE GAME

Hold George Van Heyde To Four Points; Beat Morreys by 29-15 Score.

The Federal Glass basketball team, C. A. C. opponent New Year's night, came through with a splendid victory in the Capital City league Monday evening by trouncing George Van Heyde and his Morrey Jewelers by a 29-15 score.

The Federal team scoring was led by Johnny Kossman, captain, who had 10 points on four field and two foul goals, and Kraft, another guard, with nine points. McNash, Sells, Callahan, Phillips and Morgan completed the Glass lineup.

George Van Heyde, former Ohio State stellar center, was held to one goal and two fouls.

Yale Tennis Star Leads in Contest

Charles Avedon, of Cedarhurst, L. I., a member of the Yale tennis team, is one of the leading contenders in the junior-indoor tennis championships at the Seventh Regiment Armory, New York City.

Entries will close Feb. 1, 1930, for that year's Ton-Litter and Pork-Production projects sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service of the Ohio State University.

The Serv-U-Well Markets will be closed all day Wednesday in observance of New Year's Day. 238-11.

HOLD SHOOT AT GUN CLUB

Circleville Gun Club will hold a canned goods shoot on their grounds on N. Pickaway-st. Wednesday with a program that should work out just to the liking of the amateur or new shooter.

Despite a decrease of 5 per cent in total crop production, 1929 crops were worth $5 million dollars more than last year's, says the crop reporting board of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Woman's Devotion to Duty
It is related that in San Francisco harbor, when a fog bell became disabled, the woman keeper struck the bell by hand for twenty hours and thirty-five minutes, until the fog lifted. Two days later she stood all night striking the bell with a hammer during a dense fog.

GRAIN WORTH MILLION LOST

Three Employees In Hospital, Firemen Hurt In Big Fire.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31—A seven-story warehouse containing 600,000 bushels of grain was a mass of smoldering ruins today while weary firemen continued to hurl tons of water upon the debris following a spectacular fire which caused damage exceeding a million dollars.

Three of the employees were in hospitals, one expected to die of burns, and two firemen were seriously injured in the blaze which started as an insignificant fire on the top story until a blast of flame from a dust explosion bowled over three men attempting to extinguish the fire.

GETS START
Before the first fire company arrived, the entire structure was ablaze, tongues of flame shooting a hundred feet into the air.

Nineteen special alarms brought every fire fighting apparatus on the south side to the fire. Such was the temperature of the mass, window panes melted like wax. No water was available for several blocks.

Hundreds of hose lines were strung over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, tying up traffic until workers, under the protection of a barrage of water, dug space beneath the rails for the hose.

Chief Fire Marshal Corrigan said he believed the grain would smolder for at least a week. Meanwhile relays of firemen are pouring water on the smoldering ruins.
